

Contacts for Additional Fire Information

When we started creating our service-learning program, our goal was to keep the units small in order to not overwhelm teachers and keep the time commitment down. At the same time, we wanted to give the students tools to solve local and state problems, and opportunities to participate in hands-on work. Keeping with these goals, we had to select which areas to explore in depth and which to leave out.

If you are interested in learning more and making wildfire a part of your curriculum, the resources below are a great start.

- The Colorado State Forest Service has free videos and other resources. Contact your regional State Forest Service office for more information:
http://csfs.colostate.edu/pdfs/CSFSwebDirectory_October_2012.pdf
- Project Learning Tree (PLT) is an education program affiliated with Colorado State University in Fort Collins and housed in Golden. The Colorado office phone number is 303-278-8822 and their website is <http://csfs.colostate.edu/pages/project-learning-tree.html>
- The United States Forest Service has a teaching center in Montana for teachers called FireWorks. You can learn more about it here:
<http://www.firelab.org/science-applications/science-synthesis/75-fireworks>